A ton of credit has to go to our Edo van Belkom for bringing together a great Trillium Trade Show experience for our members in April. Our hosts at the Hockey Hall of Fame Doc Seaman Resource Centre treated us all royally and everyone was most impressed with their guided tours of the HHOF Archives.

For more on David, check out his web-site at darrigoart.com. A portion of his site is included within.

Thanks to our own Mike Tutt, the Trillium Chapter has a busy facebook page. Check it out and be sure to post any relevant collecting item for us all to enjoy.
Find it at "Collectors of Canadian Beer Stuff".

Dues must be paid in full by January 31, 2019 to be considered a member in good standing.
TRILLIUM TALES SHALL NOT BE FORWARDED TO ANY (NON)-MEMBER AFTER THIS DUE DATE

Spring Show Review

The Trillium Chapter's Spring 2019 Buy/Sell/Trade had more of a Buy/Show/Tell feeling as this year's event was hosted by the Hockey Hall of Fame and held at the Hall's Doc Seaman Hockey Resource Centre in Etobicoke. Because of space limitations, the show was open to family and friends of Chapter members and resulted in an event with a vibe that was more like a social gathering than a swap meet.

But that was just a part of a terrific event that exceeded expectations.

On hand was artist Dave Arrigo who proved to be amiable, enthusiastic and enjoyed the company of Trillium members every bit as much as the Chapter enjoyed having him on hand.

The Hockey Hall of Fame staff, Izak Westgate, Craig Campbell, Mario Della-Savia and Samantha Chianta, all made sure that we were not only welcome, but went out of their way to put on a show that included silent auction items, a tour of the facility, and a display set up specifically for the Chapter that included the Conn Smythe and Art Ross trophies, the oldest hockey jersey in the Hall's collection (1905), beer sponsored jerseys, and other items of interest to brewerianists.

There was also an appearance by Steve Himmel of Henderson Brewery who not only showed up to receive a letter of appreciation for his company's donation of O-Pee-Chee can sets for the Hall and the Chapter, but who also brought two sets of the brewery's new Toronto Wolfpack 9-player can set to donate to the Chapter.

The show ended with a haul of new donation items from members going into the Hall's collection, and finally wound down days later when an article about the event appeared in the Etobicoke Guardian (toronto.com), which in turn generated a spot on CityTV News, highlighting the Chapter's efforts to collect beer-themed cans for the Hall.

In a couple of words the show was -- special and memorable -- and set an incredibly high bar for future buy/sell/trades to match.....But we will try.

From the Henderson Brewing web-site:

We were pretty excited to get a note from a representative of the Hockey Hall of Fame asking for a set of our Ides of January, O-Pee-Chee inspired cans. We have obliged their request and a set is on their way to the esteemed hall.

The cans will be catalogued and archived, but sadly there is not currently a plan for them to be put on display. Edo van Belkom, the Vice President of the Trillium Chapter of the Brewery Collectibles Club of America and the lead on getting our cans into the Hall of Fame told us "the goal is to someday soon have acquired enough diverse and eclectic hockey-themed cans to convince the Hall to do a beer can display that shows all of the great ways hockey and beer have intersected overtime". Excellent! You can check out all 21 Henderson O-Pee-Chee Lager cans at the brewery while supplies last.

BEER COLLECTORS, HOCKEY HALL OF FAME PARTNER TO BUILD CAN COLLECTION

We're accumulating a pop culture collection': club vice-president

May 01, 2019 by Dominik Kurek, from Toronto.com web-site

The Hockey Hall of Fame is home to the Stanley Cup, a collection of old jerseys and sticks of hockey's greatest players, a spotlight on legends, historical photographs, and a whole lot more artifacts — but is there room for old beer cans?

Edo van Belkom, a breweriana collector, sure thinks so.

Van Belkom is the vice-president of the Trillium chapter of Brewery Collectibles Club of America, which meets in Toronto's west end. The club has partnered with the Hall's Doc Seaman Hockey Resource Centre, located inside the Mastercard Centre in Etobicoke, to catalogue the hall's collection of hockey-related beer and pop cans, and the members are donating to that collection personally as well. The hope, van Belkom said, is that one day that collection could be displayed at the Hall itself. "Maybe in a couple of years we're going to have a 1,000 cans, and we'll make this giant wall display and it will look amazing," he said. "We're accumulating a pop culture collection." Van Belkom said that the big ticket items, such as skates, sticks and jerseys worn by players such as Wayne Gretzky or Gordie Howe will always be the main attraction. But those items are not within visitors' grasp, often kept behind glass. "The purpose of this is that someone is going to see that and they're going to say, 'I had that can in my hand' — something in the Hall of Fame that they had themselves and they can relate to it on that level," he said.

Members of the Trillium club collect anything and everything related to beer — including cans, bottles, openers, coasters and more. For the partnership with the Doc Seaman Resource Centre, they are focused on only hockey-related items, particularly cans. They depict pro-level images, but also pond hockey, house league stuff and more.

CONTINUED

Izak Westgate, assistant curator of the resource centre, said that the help of the brewery collectors is a great help to the non-profit arm of the hall, which researches hockey's history and supports grassroots programs. The centre doesn't have the staffing levels to do the kind of work that the club is doing, he said.

"It's beneficial to both of us. They're getting a bit more exposure and it gives them something they can work towards. They pretty much inventoried our entire beer and pop can collection that we had existing," Westgate said. "They have all the contacts in the industry around the world, not just locally, so we thought ideally let's make this a little bit bigger and they can help us collect, so that maybe we will have the biggest hockey can collection in the world."

Westgate said the resource centre wants to preserve as many artifacts as possible, so that one day it could be exhibited in the hall. Van Belkom said that the union between hockey and beer is a natural one; chances are if you like one, you also like the other, he said.

"The history of beer and hockey are intertwined, because as soon as one existed it was immediately associated with the other. They seem to go hand in hand."

DAVID ARRIGO – ELITE ILLUSTRATION

From his web-site: darrigoart.com

Over the past couple of years I have worked with Labatt USA on such activations as their pond hockey events. I always had a great time and enjoyed working with the entire Labatt team. In early 2016, they approached me to gauge my interest in teaming up to complete a unique style of artwork for the beer cans for the 2017/18 hockey season. There was no question in my mind, this was going to be a great partnership.

My life has now come full circle; from consumption to concept design! LabattUSA hockey partners include the Buffalo Sabres, Columbus Blue Jackets, Detroit Red Wings, Philadelphia Flyers and the Pittsburgh Penguins. It was decided that we would illustrate a painting for each respective market. The concept would include celebration of the game, the arena and certain geographical landmarks of each city. I was tasked to utilize my style to create a bold and unique look, I was full steam ahead as they wanted something different and I was going to give it to them. So the sketching proceeded.

I had the time of my life painting these pieces, taking the various arenas and landmarks and giving them a little spin on the overall look; stretching them out, etc, trying to replicate the incredible motion of the players and so on. I can't begin to even explain the hours that went into these pieces.

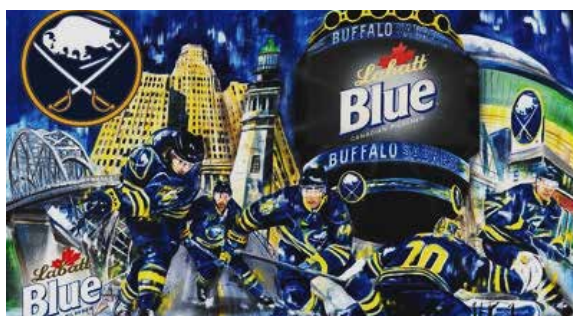

When I received the samples of the cans, opening the box was better than any Christmas I remember. I was so excited to see my art replicated onto the cans.

To help support the release of the signature beer can line, the Labatt team and I hit the road for a 6 week, 5 city whirlwind tour. Exhausting at times but over the top in experience. Each city's personality and fans added such a great energy to this program.

We started off in Pittsburgh, then onto Detroit, then Columbus, followed up by Buffalo (which is hometown to Labatt USA) ending off in Philadelphia.

PREZ SEZ.....THE EDUCATION OF A BEER CAN COLLECTOR

I have spent the better part of my life pursuing higher education at some pretty decent Canadian and American Universities, so the last thing on my mind was to seek out a post-graduate degree in beer can collecting. Nonetheless, that is what has transpired. By happenstance, the woman who has made my life worth living, had this crazy can-obsessed collector for a father named Metro Gorgichuk.

For more than 30 years, Metro met once a week with other like-minded obsessive-compulsive individuals to trade cans, share beer stories, cheer on their sports teams and argue about politics. Most often, these events took place in front of Metro's basement bar, which of late has come to be known affectionately as Club 273. Being mostly focused on my family and career, I sat at the periphery of these weekly events. I was aware of them and the crazy people who were part of Metro's inner circle, whom he lovingly referred to as his "riff-raff". But beyond that, I was largely ignorant of the proceedings.

All of that changed several years ago when Metro passed away. Being totally clueless regarding Metro's collection of thousands of brewery collectibles, I turned to the "riff-raff" for wise counsel and sage advice. I wasn't disappointed. They stepped up big time, sorting through cans, bottles, bubbas, trays, signs and openers with gusto. They organized and executed an auction of Metro's treasures with such passion and efficiency that I'm sure Metro chuckled with glee from his vantage at that great big Labatt's brewery in the sky. It took Cathy and I one year to decide what to do with Metro's home. I can recall announcing to the "riff-raff" that Cathy and I had decided to sell our home in Newmarket and re-locate to the Etobicoke homestead once it was fully renovated. At the same time, I announced that we would be re-instituting the weekly gatherings in Metro's basement, to which our star collector from Rockwood exclaimed something to the effect of "Hot Dog! Thursday nights are back on!"

And so for the past 3- 4 years, the "band of brothers" have been educating a rather uninformed novice in the art of breweriana collecting. I now know the difference between a cone top, a zip tab, a pull tab and a button top. There are aluminum bottles and there are steel cans. I know that it is a sin not to bottom-open a can. There are current cans and there are vintage cans. People collect corner signs and church keys. There are tip trays, beer trays and ashtrays. There are crowns and there are corks. I doubt that my education will be finished anytime soon. I still have a lot to learn but one thing that I have learned for sure along this journey is that Metro was right about one thing when he said, "This hobby is all about camaraderie". I am grateful for this lesson.

NICE CATCH FOR LEO

I just scored a very hard to find Red Cap Ale from Kijiji for $15. I mostly bought it because of it's condition was so very clean and it would be a nice upgrade to the dumper I have on my shelf. I send Dave Fowler a picture of it and he asked how many cities were listed on it. I mentioned there were three and I was aware that there are two different cans with two different list of cities. Dave pointed out that his book lists a 4 city and a 5 city can. He had long felt there might be a three city can out there as the Black Label had a three city. Well it surfaced on Kijiji and I was fortunate enough to land it.

YELLOWBELLY BREWERY RELEASES COME FROM AWAY ISLANDER

ST. JOHN'S, NL – YellowBelly Brewery has announced the release of a new beer created in partnership with one of the biggest hit musicals on Broadway.

Come From Away Islander Pale Ale (6% abv) was developed as a collaboration with Brooklyn's Five Boroughs Brewing and The Happy Hour Guys as part of the Broadway Brews series of charity beers.

Brewed with Vermont ale yeast and Cascade, Amarillo, and Cashmere hops, it's described as "a juicy beer with lots of citrus and stonefruit aromas." Come From Away Islander Pale Ale is available now at YellowBelly and NLC stores. A portion of proceeds will be donated to Tuesday's Children, a non-profit organization that supports those impacted by terrorism and traumatic loss.

BEER IN CORNER STORES COULD COST ONTARIO TAXPAYERS $1 BILLION, INDUSTRY SOURCES SAY

by Robert Benzie, Toronto Star, April 23, 2019

It could cost Ontario taxpayers more than $1 billion in damages to the Beer Store to keep Premier Doug Ford's campaign promise to sell beer in corner stores. That's because of a complex 10-year deal signed by the previous Liberal government with the major breweries that allowed the sale of six-packs in 450 of the province's 1,500 supermarkets.

The brewers that own The Beer Store agreed to invest $100 million in upgrading their stores and to freeze prices for two years under a 10-year deal signed by the previous Liberal government that allowed the sale of six-packs in 450 of Ontario's 1,500 supermarkets. Under that 27-page "master framework agreement" (MFA) inked in 2015, the brewers agreed to invest $100 million in upgrading beer outlets over four years and to freeze prices for two years.

While those terms have already been fulfilled, the Progressive Conservative government wants to renegotiate the deal so beer can be sold in more than 10,000 convenience stores, big-box outlets and supermarkets, as Ford promised in last spring's election campaign. Sources told the Star the same lawyers for the Ontario government and the major beer companies that hammered out the accord almost four years ago are currently in high-level talks aimed at undoing it.

"The reality is Molson's and Labatt's and Sleeman's, their sales are going to go up. Now we put in 10,000 stores, even if people buy one beer out of those stores, that's 10,000 additional beers a day." However, industry officials argue that adding thousands of small retail outlets would dramatically increase distribution costs, lowering profit margins for brewers and leading to higher beer prices for consumers. "We're making some changes. Soon you're going to be able to pick up a case of beer, or a bottle of wine at corner stores across Ontario. Why? Because why not," he said, urging backers to send the Tories a $1 donation.

In his AM640 interview and in the PC fundraising appeal, Ford did not address the potential damages that could be awarded to the Beer Store for breaking the contract. "Well, we aren't at that point right now. We're negotiating with the Beer Store and I'm sure you appreciate, Alan, I can't get into all the details," he told Carter. "But we don't believe anyone should have a monopoly on beer and wine." The 2015 contract between former Liberal premier Kathleen Wynne's administration and the brewers spells out the potential liability for taxpayers in ironclad terms, regardless of any change in government.

Industry sources said the price tag for taxpayers could easily eclipse $1 billion in compensating the Beer Store for the $100 million already spent, the lost profits during the two-year price freeze, and the "descaling costs" if the 450-outlet chain is forced to close stores and lay off employees due to a decrease in business. Queen's Park could be on the hook for hundreds of millions in severance payments, pension liabilities and lease termination costs if the Beer Store, which employs 7,000 unionized workers, is shuttered. In a statement, the Beer Store would only confirm it is in talks with Queen's Park "aimed at reaching a mutually agreeable amendment to the MFA to improve customer convenience and choice." "We cannot disclose the details of these ongoing discussions," said the retailer, which is owned by Labatt, Molson, Sleeman and about 30 smaller Ontario brewers.

ANDREW PELLER LIMITED & WAYNE GRETZKY ESTATES LAUNCHING NO. 99 RYE LAGER

BY CBN, APRIL 26, 2019

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, ON – Andrew Peller Limited has announced that its popular Wayne Gretzky Estates wine and spirits portfolio is expanding into the beer market with the launch of Wayne Gretzky Craft Brewing. The first release from the new venture is No. 99 Rye Lager (5% abv), which is described as follows:

Starting with a classic Canadian Lager, we turned up the flavour by adding Canadian Winter Rye – a grain with a unique heartiness built to survive cold Canadian winters. The inclusion in No. 99 Rye Lager brings a result unlike any other beer with an extra layer of depth, zest and freshness to its' smooth malt and light hops flavour of a classic Canadian Lager. This beer is well balanced and delicate on the palate, designed to be easy drinking and refreshing.

No. 99 Rye Lager was created by Joshua Beach, master distiller for Wayne Gretzky Estates whisky, with input from Gretzky himself. The announcement also notes that this move represents a return to the brewing industry for the Peller family and company, as founder Andrew Peller – grandfather of current company head John Peller – “started his career in the 1930’s as a brewmaster at E.P. Taylor Canadian brewing, which led him to open his own brewery, Peller Brewing Company in 1947, in Hamilton.”

Wayne Gretzky No. 99 Rye Lager will be available this weekend at Wayne Gretzky Estates, and starting in May at LCBO stores and select licensees in Ontario
